POTTER REPORTS

From Washington

TWO SIDES TO EVERY QUESTION? Not necessarily. The wise man regards it like the fly-catcher's flypaper. There are two sides to a sheet of flypaper. It makes a great deal of difference which side the fly decides to walk on. Take the case of foreign trade:

MICHIGAN AND THE WORLD could be the name of a new trade study by the Commerce Department. At least a third of our State's workers, it reveals, earn their daily bread in industries which export. Trade, the red blood in this knobby old terrestrial body, is as necessary as breathing. To sell what we cannot use ourselves, we must move the products of our farms, factories and mines. To obtain certain necessities and rare items, we must import. Without exports we would have to shut down many of our plants. Without imports our standard of living would not be as high.

Michigan's share of U. S. exports in 1956 came to $861 million of the overall $19 billion. Most of it was transportation equipment, machinery, metal products, primary metals and food. To produce these we imported a long list of raw materials and parts, such as jute, mercury, graphite, industrial diamonds, tantalum, cobalt, cocoa, pepper and cashew nuts.

All this is great until the factor of foreign competition looms. Right now the copper industry in the Upper Peninsula needs protection and that's why 14 Senators, including myself, have introduced legislation to impose an import tax on copper. If passed, the bill would operate separately from the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

THE DAY SHE CAN TRADE with the world directly through her own ports on the St. Lawrence Seaway will be a great one for Michigan. According to schedule, that will be in the spring of 1959. However, a proviso in the new federal budget freezes out ship operators from the lucrative Lakes trade.

The 1959 budget limits to 2,000 the number of voyages eligible for operating differential subsidies. A foreign line, for example, can operate a 10,000-ton cargo ship at only 46¢ of what it would cost an American line. Therefore, certain carefully scrutinized routes and voyages are subsidized by the federal government to keep the American merchant marine competitive.

The proposed 2,000-voyage cut-off is unwise and discriminatory. It hands a monopoly to salt water shipping. It cuts off all pending applications, including those on the new Trade Route 32 from the Lakes to foreign ports, which was declared essential by the Maritime Administration, and for which they recommended 12,000 sailings. The Budget Bureau's action, therefore, comes as an inconsistent bombshell.

I have protested to Budget Director Maurice Stans, pointing out that the limit is inadequate to meet the urgent needs of the American merchant marine. It would kill the competitive position of Great Lakes operators through June 1959, precisely when they should be bidding aggressively for Seaway trade. When the Maritime Administration's request for funds comes before us in the Appropriations Committee, I expect to follow through on my protest. Sea shipping is taken care of. Best wishes.

Crawford County Women's Activities

The Home Extension groups met at Maple Forest Town Hall for their annual Achievement Day rally. Greeted at the door by the Hospitality group, the Penny Pinchers, each lady was given a name label made in the form of a wee apron.

Mrs. Earl Broadbent, county chairman, opened the meeting with a brief speech. The various projects completed during the past year, and invited us to examine the results of the lessons displayed on card tables. Each group had a display. Three of the ones drawing most comments were the chair re-built and re-upholstered by the Lake Margaret group, the attractive lunch box groupings showing calories and blended food groupings for all ages by the Lady Ford group, and the Hobby display covering almost everything from plate, rock, card, slides books and handicraft collecting to bird watching, by the Happy Matrons group.

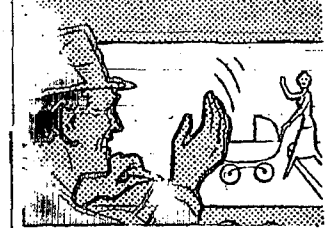

A beautiful pot luck lunch was served after which we settled down to hear our guest speaker. Introduced by Miss Jane Venable, Mrs. Mikkala of near Marquette was our Michigan representative chosen to attend the United Nations conference of the World-conference in Ceylon. She took us with her in thought by her vivid description of the countries touched down on and with colored slides further enhanced her vision. To be brief we made a quick trip by plane, starting appropriately from the United Nations Building in New York, we breakfasted in Shannon, Ireland, lunched in Paris, France and dined in Greece. In this latter country the welcome was royal, the whole village turning out to do the American ladies favor. The dinner a barbecue, was served in the village square. Home, Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, etc. came next and finally Ceylon. She told us that the movement started in Canada about 1906 has grown till there are now 38 nations belonging to the organization sending delegates to the meeting. There are other nations and observers who will eventually join, we hope. There are no communistic countries in the group. We saw small souvenirs which she brought back. To mention a few, the exquisite carvings and jewelry by the eastern groups, the wee figures of the native dress of the Greek hillwomen and the famous Palace Guard, the Indian embroidery, etc.

There was a good attendance and we hope that next year there will be many more show, up to visit and enjoy the luncheon.

One last note, since Miss Jane Venable, our Home Extension agent has been here our membership has more than doubled. If we can do this in two years what can we do in four? Ladies, contact Mrs. Sam Collen, our secretary for the group nearest you and join us in a worthwhile project.

Canoe Racing Gains Fast In Popularity

Canoe racing is rapidly becoming one of the topflight tourist attractions in the central and eastern Michigan region, according to Frank Davis, Secretary-Manager of the East Michigan Tourist Association, in Bay City, Michigan. "The way the popularity of canoeing is increasing it appears we are returning to the ways of the Indian," Davis commented.

"Every year canoe paddling teams enter an increased number of racing events on Michigan rivers, attracting thousands of spectators," he said.

Two new races, the Mackinac Canoe Marathon and the Midwest International Canoe Race, have been added to the racing schedule this year. The season's finale will be the 12th running of the 240-mile marathon down the AuSable River on Labor Day.

On June 28, the Mackinac Marathon will take place as part of the Mackinac Bridge Dedication Festival. Starting at Indian River this 45-mile race will be run over part of the Inland Waterway from Burt, Lake to Mackinaw City via the Indian River, Mullett Lake, Cheboygan River and the Straits of Mackinac on Lake Huron.

The Rifle River, north of Standish in eastern Michigan, is the scene for the 1st Annual Midwest International Championship race scheduled on July 4th. This event starts at Lupton and runs some 85 miles to Omer on US-23.

The Tawas River Canoe Race will be staged on June 22 running from Tawas Lake through the Tawas River to Lake Huron. On August 17 paddlers will race the Pigeon River at Cascoville in Michigan's thumb area.

The Michigan International Canoe Marathon on Labor Day is expected to attract entrants from Canada and neighboring Midwest states along with many Michigan racing teams. Starting at Grayling this gruelling, non-stop race runs for 240 miles down the AuSable River to finish at Oscoda on Lake Huron. This race was witnessed by more than 50,000 spectators last year.

Record time for the classic is 16 hours and 58 minutes, set in 1956 by the world champion long distance canoe racing team of

Sound Series . . .

With its issue of April 26, the Saturday Evening Post inaugurated a project which may be the most ambitious the magazine's long history. It consists of a series of articles carrying the general title "Adventures of the Mind." Its announced purpose is to build a bridge across the obvious and dangerous "chasm that separates the intellectuals of our nation from the millions of citizens whose attitudes and opinions determine national policy and set the standards of national behavior." As the Post editors point out in an introductory note, "what the scholar thinks, the artist creates, the scientist discovers, cannot achieve full reality without the rest of us."

The first article, "An Evolutionist Looks at Modern Man," is by Loren Eiseley, now chairman of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania. He establishes his point in his opening sentence: "In the age of technology which now surrounds us, and which boast of its triumphs over nature, one thing is ever more apparent to the anthropologist—the student of man. We have not really conquered nature because we have not conquered ourselves." There are great museums in which one can see admirable representations of man's achievements, from the discovery of fire to the taming of nuclear energy. But these do not show what Dr. Eiseley believes to be the most remarkable story of all—"the rise of a value-creating animal and the way in which his intangible dreams had been modified and transformed to bring him to the world he faces today."

In his view, we have, in accepting the theory of evolution and in emphasizing man's relationship to the other animals, frequently failed to inquire into what way human evolution may differ from that of those other animals, and "... by what extra dangers and responsibilities the human brain may be haunted."

ONLY YESTERDAY

lution and in emphasizing man's relationship to the other animals, frequently failed to inquire into what way human evolution may differ from that of those other animals, and "... by what extra dangers and responsibilities the human brain may be haunted." We have all heard, in this connection that the world is made up of two kinds of people—the tough-minded and the tender-minded, and that the tough "will survive." That, to Dr. Eiseley, is both archaic and wrong. Man, he writes, "has survived through tenderness" and in tenderness lies much of his uniqueness. The human infant, as compared with other infants, is extraordinarily helpless. The period of which this is true is prolonged. So, to quote him again: "If our parents had actually practiced certain of the philosophies that now flourish among us, or if our remote ancestors had achieved that degree of sophistication which would have enabled them to discount their social responsibilities for the day's pleasure, we—you and I and all of us—would never have enjoyed the experience of living." Again—man "... is born of love and he exists by reason of a love more continuous than in any other form of life."

We live in an almost incredibly complex technological society today, and the emphasis, inevitably, is on things—material things. The great danger here is that this will endanger the other and infinitely older and deeper values we know as spiritual values. This, in essence, is the moral of Dr. Eiseley's fine article. That article is long, closely and vividly reasoned, and a brief summary can do scant justice to it. But the idea that dominates his thinking is found in one more quotation: "A future worth contemplating will not be achieved solely by flights to the far side of the moon. It will not be found in space. It will be achieved, if it is achieved at all, only in our individual hearts. This is the choice that has been presented man, as a free agent, as one who can look before and after in the cosmos."

"And if indeed men do achieve that victory, they will know, with the greater insight they will then possess, that it is not human victory, but nature's new and final triumph in the human heart — perhaps that nature which is also God."

One day last week everybody and everything in Camp Ausable was especially well groomed of course everything is always properly groomed but — in anticipation of the arrival of Major Stark. We had hoped for a good impression by all, including our unusually handsome and intelligent dog "Danya" but on this occasion the careless little beast had spent the morning rolling in the road and then had galloping into headquarters where he cheerfully deposited himself and his dust all over the first bunk which met the major's eye.

Under the management of Earl Broadbent, the Oddfellows are assembling a baseball team which is expected (they say) to teach the rest of the local teams just how thoroughly and scientifically this game can be played. It is expected that by next week we will be able to print the lineup.

Earl Broadbent seems bent on self-destruction — and it is just about all his friends can do to keep him on the "straight and narrow." Last Monday while at work on the railroad he had the misfortune of getting his foot in path of a large spike, injuring it quite badly and he has been limping ever since.

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Barrus and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Strauss of Ithaca visited friends here over the weekend. While here, Dr. Barrus and Mr. Strauss, accompanied by Ernest and Alfred Borchers and Mr. Frank Green of Hudson, made a fishing trip down the river by canoe.

PLYMOUTH SAVES YOU MONEY ON GAS... MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY PROVES IT!

New "Fuel-Saver" Choke that helped clinch title is standard equipment on all Plymouth V-8s Found for pound, Plymouth uses less gasoline than either of the "other two" cars in the low-price "3". This was proved beyond doubt when a 1958 Plymouth V-8 was officially declared winner of the low-price car competition in the 1958 Mobilgas Economy Run. Plymouth's competitors also entered cars with 6-cylinder engines (supposedly more economical) but Plymouth beat every car in its class—V-8s and 6s alike!

This title-winning Plymouth is exactly the same Belvedere V-8 with TorqueFlite Automatic Transmission that you can buy right off your Plymouth dealer's floor.

These tests prove that every Plymouth has built-in economy features not found in the "other two". For instance—one of the most important factors in Plymouth's smashing win is the new "Fuel-Saver" Choke that you get at no extra cost on all Plymouth V-8s. This ingenious device employs a triple-stage vacuum piston and a new thermostatic element to reduce the amount of fuel you use in warming up the engine. So it can save you even more on short-distance drives—the kind most people make.

Among the many other savings Plymouth gives you is the $140 you save on standard-equipment Torition-Aire Ride. The "other two" charge up to that much extra for their best suspension systems.

So if you are dollar-conscious, better hustle over and talk terms and trade with your Plymouth dealer. He wants your business, and he'll go all out to get it!

Local Guard News
Members of the local Guard Unit now training in advanced military subjects, held a field problem Wednesday, May 14th consisting of map and compass work. This two hour class was conducted by Sp2 Ronald E. Larson and took place in the Stephens Bridge area, purpose of this is to train in areas not familiar to all personnel so that the problem must be done according to army standards.
The main point brought out by this class was the use of the compass and how to reach a certain destination by striking off on a given azimuth. Also covered was the use of overlays on a map. Overlays are used to cut down on the number of maps required and to eliminate markings on maps presently in use.
Sgt. William A. Beckett Jr., a member of Co. M, 125th Inf Regt of Pontiac, Michigan attended drill with our unit. Sgt. Beckett is working in Roscommon and will be drilling with us through the summer.

Fisherman's Delight

Michigan's 36,000 miles of streams attract thousands of trout fishermen who claim this sport is tops in outdoor enjoyment. Trout angling continues to grow in popularity and more than 225,000 trout fishermen are expected to test their skills during the state's April 26-September 14 season this year.

Ambitious trout planting and habitat improvement programs are helping Michigan to maintain its position as one of the nation's top trout states.

The exciting sport of trout angling has enjoyed a tremendous boom in popularity in recent years, adding about 10,000 new enthusiasts each year.

In 1951, Michigan had approximately 188,000 licensed trout fishermen; today the total is in the 225,000-240,000 range.

To meet the demands of these fishermen, the Michigan Conservation Department releases more than 2,000,000 hatchery-reared trout in public fishing waters annually. In 1957, planting included 2,560,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout.

In addition, the Department's lake and stream improvement program handles the task of making fish habitat more suitable for natural reproduction. Work under this program includes stabilization of eroding stream banks, and installation of structures in streams to regulate water flow.

Some oldtimers recall the "good old days" and look with dismay at "artificial" trout fishing, but modern day conditions mean nature often needs an assist from science to meet demands on fish and wildlife resources.

Michigan's population has nearly doubled in 30 years and probably will continue this rapid increase. In addition, shorter work weeks and more leisure time mean added pressure on natural resources. Meanwhile, trout waters in the state are faced with the advance of civilization and industry, and are expected to produce more and more fish to keep ahead of the growing army of anglers.

The trout planting and stream rehabilitation programs promise to play a big part in Michigan's trout fishing future.

Grayling Planted
In U. P. Lake

About 800 three-inch Montana grayling were planted May 1 in Lake Manganese, Keweenaw
county.

The fish had been hatched and raised at Wolf Lake hatchery.
They were flown from the Kalamazzo airport to Houghton, where a station wagon took them to the wilderness lake near Copper Harbor.

The 62-acre lake was poisoned
last year to remove conflicting fish life. Water conditions in the lake are similar to native grayling lakes in Montana.

Michigan grayling have been extinct for several decades. The Montana variant is practically identical, however, and this planting is the most recent in a long series of attempts to return the trout-like fish to the state where his gamey fame first developed.

The young fish were transported in sealed polythene pouches that had been half filled with water, then puffed up with oxygen. This method of transport has proved its value in recent years, and is a key factor in moving young fish
from hatchery ponds to planting sites.

Later this year, probably in June, attempts will be made to boost up the stocking attempt by placing 100,000 eyed grayling eggs
in two small streams that feed
Manganese Lake.

May 2, 1958
A regular meeting of the Board of Crawford County Road Commission was held in their office in Grayling. The meeting was called to order by Comm. Johnson. Members present, Richmond and Supt. Carlson. Absent, none.

The minutes of the last meeting
read. A motion was made by Comm. Richmond supported by Comm. Carlson that the minutes be approved as read. All voted in favor, motion carried.

Brig-General MacDonald and Col. Ward met with the Board pertaining to activities of the Michigan National Guard for the summer, which would affect the Road Commission. A meeting was set for August 2, 1958, to work out the details for use of the County Roads by the Michigan
National Guard.

Supt. Carlson briefed the Board on the progress of the 1958 Construction program.
The Commissioners accompanied Supt. Carlson on a trip to visit the construction projects
now in progress.

After returning to their office
a motion was made and supported to adjourn. Motion carried, meeting adjourned.

Seek Bids For
Sharon Road Bridge

The State Highway Department
will take bids June 4th in Lansing
on a Kalkaska county road commission project for a bridge to carry Sharon road over the Manistee river, four miles east of Kalkaska.

The old steel, truss-type bridge
at the site collapsed last year under a heavy load. The new bridge will be 100 feet long, with a 24-foot-wide clear roadway and safety walks. The bridge will be financed by the Kalkaska county road commission and the Federal government on a 50-50 matching basis. Completion date is November 1958.

The Department is required to take bids on all county road commission projects by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads when federal aid funds are to be used.

Aluminum

If you're considering a new farm building or light industrial warehousing, it'll pay you to figure with us. We can save you money, labor and time on custom structures of a variety of structures
using Alcoa Aluminum Roofing and Siding.

We build both barns and warehouses from Alcoa-designed pole building plans, or we will help you design your own plan if ours fails to fit your specific need.

Alcoa Aluminum Roofing and Siding offers many advantages.
It has a special ability to reflect heat, actually will cut peak summer temperatures as much as 15 degrees. It builds strong, too . . .
holds heat inside during winter months. Alcoa Roofing is available on buildings we construct for you in 618 or 624 gage . . .

crimp or corrugated, embossed or plain. Whatever the finish, Alcoa Roofing stays put when we apply it. As a bonus, it'll cut your maintenance chores, too—
it never needs painting.

GONE FOREVER

There's no going back in time. We are out of the dirt road era; we live in the future of unlimited space and fantastic progress. So, what's wrong with the country today? NOTHING! Sure the national economic machine has slowed down from the terrific pace set following World War II, but there is nothing basically wrong.

For those people in our community who are worried about the future and the so-called "recession" remember: The American disposable income last year hit the fantastic peak of $280 billion. And there's money in the bank: some $22 billion in savings. And most important, the earning power (income) of the average family is moving up the economic ladder at a rapid pace. By 1965 the number of families with an income of $5,000 or over, will be up by a third. America is strong! She will always be as strong morally, financially and physically as we,

as individuals, want her to be.

We have faith in this community. We intend to keep expanding and trading with our fellow towns-
men. Join us!

TRUCKS HELP MAKE IT SO

Whether it's Michigan's wonderful water resources or her great education facilities — twin themes of this year's Michigan Week — the benefits to the people are more far-reaching because of motor transport. For trucks are indeed Michigan's supply lines, transporting everything we eat, wear, or use to every corner of the State — enabling her people to live, shop, do business wherever they please, opening new horizons to new generations. . . . Next time you see a truck on the road, remember — it's working for you, serving you, too, so you can say, "It's great to live in Michigan!"

State's Troubles Tied To Current Economic Slow Down

PROBLEMS THAT PLAGUED Michigan when the 1958 legisla- ture convened last January are still unsolved.

Most of the state's problems have dollar signs and all are tied to the economic illness abroad in the land.

The legislature will return May 15 for a two-day adjournment session at which six of the 1958-59 budget bills will get final action.

Warnings three months ago that slump in tax revenue and general resistance to new levies would mean cutbacks were borne out with heavy impact as the regular session ended.

Higher education was hardest hit. Michigan State University was cut $1,011,000 under current expenditures. The University of Michigan $900,000. Smaller colleges got smaller reductions.

Difficult administrative problems result from the cutbacks. Colleges and universities are trying hard to prepare for the "tidal wave" of students which has been moving through grade and high schools. Officials indicated they would be forced to "borrow from the future" by postponing purchases, slowing down programs, maintaining present pay schedules, reducing personnel in some categories, cutting back on building maintenance.

At MSU a way will have to be found to keep in existence the Traffic Safety Center and the Labor Management Relations Institute. These will also be cut. A program was provided for this year's budget. The same is true at U-M's Human Resources Institute.

In closing hours pressure developed quickly and heavily on the legislature to make adjustments. The Republican party in the House held firm for the final vote on the education bill, retaining the cuts.

"If we gave ground on education, we would have to relax on everyone else," said one House member.

Various estimates gauged budget cuts as between 2.5 per cent and 10 per cent among the 114 agencies of state government. Republicans said it would mean layoffs of employees.

Reasons for the cutbacks lay in the general economic slump. When sales fell off, sales tax revenue declines. Business, which pays a good share of the state's revenue, pays on the rate of business volume.

"Wait 'til next year." That's the prediction of legislators of both parties. They now base their guesses on national forecasts that the slump will end by mid-summer and refer to revised state tax structure recommendations that should be ready in 1959.

Two committees of the legislature are hard at work trying to find the answers. An intangible tax boost, part of one tentative study report, became a major factor in the 1958 session.

Shortly after the report was made and the legislature studying how it could be applied, Gov. Romney took it over.

The governor's proposal — the tax he imposed this year to pour $20,000,000 into the sagging state treasury. Republicans rebelled and bolted it up in the House. Next year, it will be embraced in a package of other proposals — in an attempt to bail Michigan's government out of a sea of red ink.

INCREASES in the cost of driver's licenses were enacted by the 1958 session.

They will boost original licenses from $2.50 to $3; renewals from $1.50 to $2 and chauffeur's licenses from $1.25 to $1.50. The $1 fee for minor's restricted licenses will be unchanged.

Biggest part of the increase will be to raise $700,000 for driver education in the high schools, and 25 cents of the total increase will go for identification photographs on licenses.

The legislature ruled that the "pay raise" be added until money is appropriated and laying the effectiveness of the new law until 1959.

LABOR HAS TWO MAJOR items at stake when the legislature comes back to Lansing in May. Still dangling are an unemployment compensation emergency benefit program and a proposal to require labor unions to make annual financial reports to the labor mediation board.

Both are controversial. Democrats charge that the $1 a week increase and maximum 14-week extension of benefits are a percentage of original benefits are temporary, while other benefits to industry are permanent.

Unions charge that the "tell-all" requiring reports is the first step toward a "right-to-work" law — the bane of labor unions everywhere.

Look what you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 FORD

You just can't appreciate all the wonderful things that have been done to make driving more fun... until you've checked out in a shiny 58 Ford!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only "yesterday" it was stoop down or knock off your hat. Now that has been changed. There's room for you and your hat inside the 58 Ford.

Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see. Full Circle visibility lets you see where you're going... see what's coming... see to park!

Now turn on the steering. Observe how smoothly your engine idles. That's because each Ford engine is built with painstaking care. Each V-8 electronically balanced while operating under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly... efficiently... and last for a long time.

And Ford gives you more — much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide — sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture Control.

Now turn on the throttle and you'll take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! For after all, the 58 Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own transmission and engine! Team Ford's exclusive Automatic Ride Control combines Angle-Poised Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level... corner level... enjoy a "big car feel."

And Ford gives you more — much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide — sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture Control.

Always a leader in safety, Ford again has pioneered new features to protect you. New Safety-Twin taillights, for example, keep you safer because they give better warning to cars behind you. And only Ford offers you famous Lifeguard Design — the whole family of safety features designed to protect you should an accident occur.

Then there are the hidden values that are yours when you choose Ford. The car is put together with fine-car precision. The finish is durable enamel-baked enamel that helps Fords keep that new-car shine. On the inside, too, Ford cars give you more insulation than any other cars in Ford's field.

Why not discover all you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 Ford? See your Ford Dealer and find out firsthand all the wonderful things that have happened to Fords. And remember: a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices shows that Ford is lowest priced of the "low-price three" in 17 out of 19 comparable models!

So why not make tomorrow your day to drive a Ford? The keys are waiting for you at your Ford Dealer's. See him and discover all the fun a Ford can be!
